OXFORD • ENGLISH COUNTRYSIDE

Featuring Blenheim Palace

Guest Speaker LORD CHARLES SPENCER-CHURCHILL

September 11 to 19, 2015
Dear Alumni and Friends:

For many, the unspoilt nature of England, Shakespeare’s “blessed plot,” lies in the ways of town and country life practiced for centuries in Albion’s idyllic university towns and pastoral villages and picturesque countrysides. Experience the time-honored quest for knowledge and the tradition-rich passage as played out in the hallowed classrooms, dining halls and quadrangles of Oxford University. Learn more about how the legacy of days gone by transcends time and forms the roots of contemporary country life as you chinwag with village residents. Meet Lord Charles Spencer-Churchill, cousin to Sir Winston Churchill, as you call on their family’s stunning Blenheim Palace, a UNESCO World Heritage site. Take the opportunity to step into the cottage where Jane Austen penned Emma. Savor the extraordinary experience of traveling in a small, merry group to the university town of Oxford and through the Cotswold region, town and country juxtaposed, discovering the great heritage and character of England’s historic academic centers, great country houses of Britain and enchanting villages.

Explore the age-old traditions of Oxford and become more familiar with the lives of great authors and icons of English history who were educated here or hailed from the surrounding region. Admire the picture-perfect scenery of thatched cottages, flower gardens and gentle streams, framed by the bucolic Cotswold landscape and dotted with haunting ruins and spectacular medieval churches built from the wealth of the wool trade. Hear about contemporary life from the local ladies and gents during the exclusive Town & Country Life Forum®, Experience this most quintessentially English culture and region, while staying in two lovely hotels, ideally located in the heart of a medieval city and in the center of a quaint country village.

This comprehensive, one-of-a-kind, limited, small group travel program is the best way to experience the charm and beauty of English town and country life. It is an exceptional value including comfortable accommodations, most excursions, daily breakfast, specially arranged meals and travel at the perfect pace. So don’t delay—space sold out quickly in 2014. We encourage you to join fellow alumni and friends and make your reservation today while Early Booking Savings and space are available.

Sincerely,

M. John Ashton

Minster Lovell, United Kingdom

One of the prettiest of the Oxfordshire villages, Minster Lovell was built on the banks of the bucolic, meandering River Windrush, essential to the wool trade that flourished in the medieval Cotswolds. Thatched-roof stone cottages line its quiet rural lane. A short distance outside the village, the 15th-century Minster Lovell Hall is steeped in legend. The surrounding lands once belonged to the Lovell family, and Francis Lovell fought in the Wars of the Roses with Richard III at the battle of Bosworth.

Cultural Enrichment: During the exclusive TOWN & COUNTRY LIFE FORUM®, local residents will discuss contemporary life in the Cotswolds.

Cotswold and Oxfordshire Villages

One of the Cotswolds best known villages, Stow-on-the-Wold is a delightful market town set along Fosse Way, the first great Roman road in Britain. It was designed around its market square during the height of the English wool industry, where as Daniel Dafoe told it, up to 20,000 sheep a day were funneled to market along narrow-walled avenues, called tunes.

Romantic gardens and classic stone houses are part of many English traditions that live on in the Cotswold and Oxfordshire villages, a bastion of beauty, history and culture.
Nestled inside the scenic Vale of Evesham, medieval Chipping Campden was built on the “white gold” wealth of the wool merchants, who left behind the soaring 15th-century Gothic tower of the Church of St. James and wool-tycoon manors, including the 14th-century Grevel House. Here villagers carry on along High Street, which still retains its old English character.

Simply beautiful, Broadway was first settled by the Romans and is often referred to as the “Jewel of the Cotswolds.” The home of William Morris, leader of the English Arts and Crafts Movement whose devotees settled throughout the Cotswolds, this village was once a major stage coach stop brimming with inns and public houses and today beckons travelers with its splendor and tranquility.

Scenes from the acclaimed international PBS MASTERPIECE television series Downton Abbey are filmed in Bampton, one of the oldest towns in England. First established during the Iron Age, with later markings as the site of an extensive unwalled Roman settlement, the historic town is included in William the Conqueror’s Domesday Book of 11th-century shires and landholders. The magnificent Church of St. John the Baptist is tucked away at the bottom of Burford’s main road. Inside, a monument to Henry VIII’s surgeon-barber is said to contain the first depictions of native Americans in Britain.

Blenheim Palace
Sir Winston Churchill remarked that he’d made two of the most important decisions of his life at Blenheim Palace—to be born and to marry. He continued, in that dry wit of his, to say he was “content with the decision I took on both occasions.” Built in the 18th century by another national hero, Sir John Churchill, the first Duke of Marlborough, with funds donated by a grateful Queen Anne after his victory at the Battle of Blenheim, this stunning Baroque masterpiece today is a UNESCO World Heritage site and one of Britain’s most treasured stately homes. The estate’s 2200-acre parkland and gardens were designed by the legendary English landscape architect “Capability” Brown.

CULTURAL ENRICHMENT: By special arrangement, meet your host, Lord Charles Spencer-Churchill, who will give our group a private and personal introduction to his family home before an exclusive luncheon in the Marlborough Room.

Oxford
Affectionately named the “city of dreaming spires” by adoring poets, Oxford is home to Britain’s most venerated university which counts Sir Thomas More, Percy Bysshe Shelley and Margaret Thatcher among its illustrious alumni. Steeped in eight centuries of history and erudition, Oxford continues to nurture great scholars while blending its revered traditions with cutting-edge research and instruction provided by many of the world’s brightest minds. Here, the exclusive customs of a Formal Hall dinner require proper attire, or college gowns, and are still honored with a three-course meal and waiter service. Magnificent cobblestone squares, medieval alleyways and Renaissance quadrangles fill the grounds of the oldest university in the English-speaking world.

CULTURAL ENRICHMENT: Visit Trinity College and the Ashmolean Museum.
CULTURAL ENRICHMENT: Exclusive lecture on student life at Oxford.

Your Farewell Dinner will be held in one of Oxford’s oldest and most beautiful dining halls.
CULTURAL ENRICHMENT: Join your traveling companions for an exclusive and private Farewell Dinner in one of the college’s hallowed dining halls.

Jane Austen’s England
Beloved author Jane Austen deftly chronicled the transition from the 18th century’s emphasis on sense, reason and improvement to the 19th century’s emphasis on sensibility and romantic excitement.

MACDONALD RANDOLPH HOTEL
Located in the center of Oxford in a landmark building, the Five-Star MACDONALD RANDOLPH HOTEL has elegance and charm and offers award-winning food in the heart of this world-famous university city. Having played host to prime ministers and presidents, the hotel’s renowned Morse Bar is instantly recognizable as the pub favored by Colin Dexter’s fictional detective, Inspector Morse. The hotel’s beautiful architecture and historic setting provide the perfect venue to enjoy afternoon tea. Each room has all the modern amenities of a fine hotel and the hotel has an elevator.

CULTURAL ENRICHMENT OPTION:
On this full-day optional excursion, visit the Jane Austen Museum in Chawton, where the author spent the last eight years of her life, and the cathedral in Winchester, where she is buried. Each site offers glimpses of the iconic writer’s life and the era that she captured in her writings.

Cambridge Colleges and Chapels • East Anglia
Pre-Program Option
Experience the iconic and prestigious British university town while walking in the pristine quad and along the sculpture-lined corridors of Cambridge. Visit the famed King’s College Chapel and tour Bletchley Park, the secret World War II intelligence site where the British deciphered the German code. Accommodations for three nights are in the comfortable, centrally located CAMBRIDGE CITY HOTEL.

Windsor Castle • Buckinghamshire • River Thames
Post-Program Option
“Sweet Thames, run softly, till I end my song,” exalted the Elizabethean poet Edmund Spenser in praise of this fabled riverway, etched as it is in heart and history of England. Explore life in the villages surrounding the Thames and cruise the river itself for a spectacular view of the locales that dot its storied banks. Visit romantic Windsor Castle, the family home of British royalty for nearly 1000 years, and look for the Queen’s Royal Standard flying from the Round Tower to see if she is in residence. Visit the traditional college town of Eton, site of England’s most famous public school and the historic and picturesque regatta town of Henley-on-Thames. Accommodations for two nights are in the deluxe, riverside MACDONALD COMPLEAT ANGLER HOTEL in the charming Buckinghamshire town of Marlow.

The Optional Excursion and Pre- and Post-Program Options are available at additional cost. Details will be provided with your reservation confirmation.
